FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on motion. The petition will be remanded to the director for consideration of the motion.

The petitioner is a state university with 4,400 employees. It seeks to employ the beneficiary as a desktop support specialist. The director determined the petitioner had not established that the proffered position is a specialty occupation.

The petitioner did not appeal the director's decision. Instead, the petitioner submitted a motion to reopen and reconsider, which was received by the director on December 23, 2001.

The Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) has jurisdiction to consider an appeal that is filed pursuant to the denial of a petition. See. 8 C.F.R. 103.3. The appropriate form to be used for an appeal in this type of petition is the Notice of Appeal (Form I-290B). Instead of filing a Form I-290B, however, the petitioner filed a motion to reopen and reconsider, which is permitted under 8 C.F.R. 103.5. As no Form I-290B has been filed, the AAO does not have jurisdiction to consider the motion to reopen and reconsider.

Accordingly, the record shall be remanded to the director to consider the petitioner's evidence on motion. The director will determine whether the petitioner has met the eligibility requirements under section 101(a)(15)(H) of the Act, and may request any additional evidence deemed necessary to assist him with his determination. As always in these proceedings, the burden of proof rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361.

ORDER: The petition is remanded to the director to consider the motion to reopen and reconsider.
